TUD Dresden University of Technology, as a University of Excellence, is one of the leading and most dynamic research institutions in the country. Founded in 1828, today it is a globally oriented, regionally anchored top university as it focuses on the grand challenges of the 21st century. It develops innovative solutions for the world's most pressing issues. In research and academic programs, the university unites the natural and engineering sciences with the humanities, social sciences and medicine. This wide range of disciplines is a special feature, facilitating interdisciplinarity and transfer of science to society. As a modern employer, it offers attractive working conditions to all employees in teaching, research, technology and administration. The goal is to promote and develop their individual abilities while empowering everyone to reach their full potential. TUD embodies a university culture that is characterized by cosmopolitanism, mutual appreciation, thriving innovation and active participation. For TUD diversity is an essential feature and a quality criterion of an excellent university. Accordingly, we welcome all applicants who would like to commit themselves, their achievements and productivity to the success of the whole institution.

At the Faculty of Psychology, Institute of Work, Organizational and Social Psychology, the Chair of Social Psychology offers a position as starting October 1, 2024. The position is limited until August 31, 2027 with the option of extension, entails 60% of the full-time weekly hours and aims at obtaining further academic qualification (usually PhD). The period of employment is governed by the Fixed Term Research Contracts Act (Wissenschaftszeitvertragsgesetz – Wiss ZeitVG).

Research Associate / PhD Student (m/f/x)
(subject to personal qualification employees are remunerated according to salary group E 13 TV-L)

The research project investigates the role of conflict and ambivalence in information processing, judgment, and decision-making processes using a wide range of methods ranging from self-report, response time, and process tracking to incentive-based behavioral paradigms. More information about the chair and research can be found here: www.irisschneider.nl.

Tasks: scientific research and teaching and the development of independent scientific ideas in the research area of the chair (see above). Duties include the guidance and support of students in scientific work, acquiring third-party funding projects, and successfully publishing scientific work. Furthermore, staff will participate in the Social Psychology Chair teaching and examination in the Psychology Bachelor, Teacher Training, and Master program in Psychology and Human Performance Socio-Technological Systems.

Requirements: a university (Diplom/Master) degree in psychology or related fields. Willingness to pursue own scientific qualification/career and acquisition of third-party funded projects. Experience with advanced experimental methods (e.g., mouse tracking, eye tracking) and neuroscience methods (EEG) or advanced data analyses (computational modeling, machine learning) is considered a plus but not required.
