Technische Universität Dresden (TUD) is one of the largest technical universities and is among the leading and most dynamic universities in Germany. As a university with 17 Faculties across 5 Schools and over 120 degree programs, TUD covers a broad research spectrum in the Research Priority Areas (RPAs) of Culture and Societal Change, Health Sciences, Biomedicine & Bioengineering, Information Technology & Microelectronics, Materials Science as well as Energy, Mobility & Environment. As one of eleven Universities of Excellence in Germany, TU Dresden offers the best conditions for research and teaching, especially with regard to its highly appealing transdisciplinary scientific network with extramural research and cultural institutions (DRESDEN-concept). Around 30,000 students are enrolled at TU Dresden, with one in six students coming from abroad. Today, about 8,700 employees from 70 countries work at TU Dresden. For TUD diversity is an essential feature and a quality criterion of an excellent university. Accordingly, we welcome all applicants who would like to commit themselves, their achievements and productivity to the success of the whole institution.

At the Faculty of Arts, Humanities and Social Science, Institute of Philosophy, the Junior Professorship (W1) of Philosophy of Science is to be filled for an initial four-year term in a temporary civil service position at the earliest possible date. Pending a positive interim evaluation, the contract will be extended to a total of six years. Evaluation criteria mutually agreed upon when the position is accepted will form the basis of the evaluation procedures. Essential performance criteria are academic success in the form of the elaboration of an independent research profile in the field of philosophy of science and its implementation in third-party funded projects and publications, significant involvement in nationally and internationally peer-reviewed publications and international conferences, success in procuring third-party funding, the initiation of collaborative projects within the Faculty of Arts, Humanities and Social Science and the School of Humanities and Social Sciences, active cooperation with internal and external scientific institutions, as well as the development of innovative curricula for the field of philosophy of science with, if applicable also in English, and positively evaluated teaching activities.

You (m/f/x) will represent the above-mentioned subject area and its national and international connections to research and teaching with the greatest possible systematic broadness. In teaching, you will be responsible for lectures in German and English in the degree programs with philosophy as a subject, including the teacher training program. Mandatory teaching initially amounts to four semester hours per week. We also expect you to be actively involved in interdisciplinary research at TU Dresden. This particularly concerns the TUDISC ("Disruption and Societal Change") measure of the School of Humanities and Social Sciences.

We are looking for a personality who can provide a background in research in one of the following areas: Philosophy of Physics, Philosophy of Biology, Philosophy of Social Sciences, Ethics of Science, Philosophy of Artificial Intelligence, or the Scientific Issues of Digitalization. We expect you to cooperate closely with the other working areas of the Institute of Philosophy. You will find an atmosphere in which there is plenty of room for active participation and reorganization of the institute. We expect you to participate in the academic self-administration of the university and are looking for an applicant with experience in the acquisition of third-party funds. In addition, we expect your readiness to collaborate with the "Physics of Life" and "Center for Tactile Internet with Human-in-the-Loop" Clusters of Excellence. Applicants must fulfill the employment qualification requirements § 63 of the Act on the Autonomy of Institutions of Higher Education in the Free State of Saxony (SächsHSFG).
For further questions, please contact the Dean of the Faculty of Arts, Humanities and Social Science, Prof. Dr. Bruno Klein, email: dekan.phf@tu-dresden.de.

TU Dresden supports junior professors with a program specifically tailored to their needs. Mentoring programs, a variety of individual coaching sessions, and special continuing education and support programs provide active professional support and assistance throughout the term of the temporary junior professorship as part of the YOU PROF program.

TU Dresden strives to employ more women in academia and research. We therefore expressly encourage women to apply. The University is a certified family-friendly university and offers a Dual Career Service. We welcome applications from candidates with disabilities. If multiple candidates prove to be equally qualified, those with disabilities or with equivalent status pursuant to the German Social Code IX (SGB IX) will receive priority for employment. If you have any questions about these topics, please contact the Equal Opportunities Officer of the Faculty of Arts, Humanities and Social Science (Ms. Caroline Friedrich, Tel.: +49 351 463-37307) or the Representative of Employees with Disabilities (Mr. Roberto Lemmrich, Tel. +49 351 463-33175).

Please submit your application including a curriculum vitae in tabular form, a description of your academic career, a list of research projects with details on third-party funding, a research plan, a teaching plan as well as a list of publications and a list of previous teaching activities – including the results of two teaching evaluations – as well as a certified copy of the certificate of the most advanced academic degree you have acquired by November 15, 2022 (stamped arrival date of the university central mail service applies), addressed to: TU Dresden, Philosophische Fakultät, Vorsitzende der Einstellungskommission, Frau Prof. Heike Greschke, Helmholtzstr. 10, 01069 Dresden, Germany and in electronic form as a single PDF via the TU Dresden SecureMail Portal (https://securemail.tu-dresden.de) to dekan.phf@tu-dresden.de.
